CONTROLLED EXPLOSION AT HOSPITAL

A controlled explosion has been carried out at a hospital which is being searched as part of the investigation into the attack on Glasgow Airport.

One of the men already arrested by police is believed to have worked as a doctor at the Royal Alexandra Hospital in Paisley.

Earlier, two more men were detained in Renfrewshire under the Terrorism Act.

Five people had already been arrested in connection with the Glasgow attack and the attempted London bombings.

The controlled explosion took place at the hospital's residential block just two miles from the airport building.

An Iraqi man, Bilal Abdulla, one of the two suspected of driving the flaming Jeep loaded with gas canisters into the arrivals hall at the airport, worked as a locum doctor at the Royal Alexandra.

The other man had severe burns and remains in a critical condition, and under armed police guard, at the same hospital.

The latest two men to be arrested are aged 28 and 25, and are not believed to be of Scottish origin.

They were detained as a result of intensive police operations in the Paisley area.

The remaining suspects were detained in Glasgow, Liverpool and Cheshire.

None of the suspects involved in the Glasgow attack and the foiled London car bombings is British in origin. Those arrested are believed to be of Middle Eastern nationalities.

Greater Glasgow and Clyde Health Board said they could not comment because of the ongoing police inquiry.

An initial controlled explosion was carried out on a car parked at the Royal Alexandra Hospital over the weekend.

ABC News in America has reported that US law enforcement officials received warnings two weeks ago of terror attacks in Glasgow and Prague, the Czech Republic, against "airport infrastructure and aircraft".

A POEM BY SAD PIRATE

I cry into my cocktail of cocoanutty bliss
Because it is my shiny, my shiny that I miss.

The waves are black and sparkling, and the maidens easy picking.
But still it is your window, that I long to be licking.

One thousand bits of Aztec gold, I have found upon these shores.

Pieces of eight and parrot plumes, but all of these are bores.
For the Rum is gone, and the keys ran off,
and there nothing left to do.
For my dearest darling shiny, I really do miss you.
