TERRORISTS ATTACK POLICE STATION

On 3rd November, Strathclyde Police arrested terrorism suspect Caleb Eden and confined him to a cell inside Clydebank Police Station. Minutes later his accomplices staged a daring rescue which saw Eden freed and six Police Constables incapacitated.

The truth of what happened that night is still being pieced together, with most of the station cordoned off and being searched by the police forensics unit. However, some mystifying details of the rescue have emerged from various sources.

Police are in possession of surveillance video which shows Eden apparently incapacitating five Police Officers in a matter of seconds without touching them or wielding a visible weapon. Doctors at Glasgow Royal Infirmary have so far offered no explanation for the lack of permanent injury to these officers.

Insider sources have also revealed that police are further mystified by damage to a corridor leading toward the roof of the building. At the same time as Eden was escaping downstairs, massive damage occurred to a roof door from the outside with a trail left of debris and further damage along the length of the corridor. Police have no way of explaining this damage, and rumours abound as to its cause.

As it stands, Police are stymied by the lack of real evidence as to how Eden escaped his cell and how the station was damaged. However, they remain confident that the perpetrators will be brought to justice.

VANDALS ATTACK MUSEUM IN EDINBURGH

City officials were shocked to discover the extent of the damage after vandals gained entrance to the National Museum of Scotland on Chambers Street, Edinburgh.

It was a scene reminiscent of the Joker in the first Batman movie. Artwork was defaced with spray-paint and the prize dinosaur skeleton was smashed and the bones were scattered about the room.

Amongst the other special exhibitions to be irreparably damaged where the Jerwood Applied Arts Prize 2007 submissions and the exhibition of contemporary Scottish crafts.

Unfortunately, the perpetrators took the video footage and witnesses were unable to provide complete descriptions.

Police have denied that there was a link with the alleged shooting of two police officers in the Georgie area of the city.

DARK TIMES INDEED.

Glasgow my dear green place what has happened to you? Once you were the 2nd City of the Empire. Once you were at the heart of the Scottish Enlightenment but now the only area where our once fair city leads is crime statistics. There isn't a week without arson, robberies and murders and recently we have also had terrorist attacks to add to this line up. What kind of leadership would idly stand by and watch as their city sinks in a sea of crime?

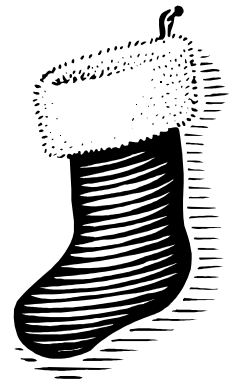

The kind of leadership that allows known terrorists to come to court.

The kind of leadership that lost more respected Camarilla kindred in Glasgow in the last five years then perished in the whole rest of Britain in the last 100 years.

The kind of leadership that has his court assaulted by the Society of Leopold, had the Sabbat murder Elders within its city and still to the day has werewolves roaming the city unchecked.

All this might scream incompetence to you but now something has happened that forces me to speak out. Our leadership has now committed the one sin which is worse then any other. So far he has failed to protect his subjects from outside threats and now he has become a threat himself. He deliberately moved his court into the clutches of a fae. The fae then proceeded to entrap the assembled kindred and use its powers on them to entrance them in some form of stupor and frenzy. Only our esteemed prince was allowed to leave the place and the rest of them were left there to their fate. Even ignoring the potential for countless breaches of the masquerade, the large scale damage to one of Glasgow's finest buildings one has to question whether this was an attack on the kindred of Glasgow. Was the prince really trying to rid himself of questioning voices like my own? Did he simply not care what happened to his subjects? Is he fit to be prince? Ask yourself, do you want to continue following him blindly?

GUNPOWDER PLOT 'SKIN' BOOK SOLD

A private buyer has paid £5,400 at auction for a book alleged to be bound in the skin of a Jesuit priest executed over the 1605 Gunpowder Plot.

The macabre lot, deemed "a bit spooky" by the auctioneer, has the mysterious image of a face on the cover, said to be that of Father Henry Garnet.

Auctioneer Sid Wilkinson of Doncaster said the face shows the haunting presence of a man falsely accused.

The book went to an unnamed buyer during a "lively" sale on Sunday.

Wilkinson's Auctioneers sale room specialist Jessica Wall said: "It was a very exciting sale. It was very lively in the room which was full."

The book, thought to date from 1606, went to a private collector.

Mr Wilkinson said the book - entitled 'A True and Perfect Relation of The Whole Proceedings against the Late most barbarous Traitors, Garnet a Jesuit and his Confederates' - has not been subjected to DNA testing.

A LETTER FROM PRINCE CARLYLE OF EDINBURGH

On the evening of the 24th, a group of kindred entered my domain. They painted slogans about your noble Prince Murrillo and pushed the boundaries of the masquerade to breaking point. All evidence was cleanly erased due to the swift actions of my Scourge. I would like to put the blame of this event firmly at the feet of the kindred most responsible.

Mr. Monk was the Camarilla agent who broke the tradition of domain which the Ventrue hold most dear. Surely Mr. Monk is acting as a free agent now? The Ventrue clan would not use the Anarchs to try and destabilize a Princes control of his city? No, that would be Sabbat tactics and should be punished most severely.

I thank you for your attention.

Prince Carlyle
